The editor of the Journal thinks there are great diversities of opinion in Kentucky among democrats about men and measures. Some prefer Cass, some Butler, some Douglas, &c. The editor seems to think these very grave matters. It only shows how many democrats can beat a whig for President-that's all. We don't think it is any matter of comfort to our neighbors of the Journal. As soon as the word comes from Baltimore, "Fall in ranks!" the whigs will look in vain for differences of opinion about the

We are satisfied the convention will nominate a good democrat, able to beat any whig ex-

These differences about men are all moonshine. It is thought by some that the controversy on this point will create insuperable difficulties; that the objections made by those who prefer one to the other will excite the hostility of all; that each candidate will be held responsible for all his friends say. This is genuine fogvism. The time has been when a candidate had his cohorts. He issued the word of command, and was responsible for the programme and execution. That day has gone by. This country is too large to be managed by drilled forces. The men spoken of for President have nothing to do with the discussion. We have our personal preference for the high office, but about the presidency, we should consider that act sufficient to rub him out. It is none of his business what we say. We are not advocating Wayne. him for his sake, but for the sake of the democratic party and the country. It is the right of any democrat to urge any fair objection to him, and it is his duty to do it now; for it will be sure to be heard of after the nomination, and will of Parke. have its weight. But the editor of the Journal says the democrats differ about measures. Some are for intervention, and some for non-intervention; some for internal improvements, and some against Sun, says: them; some for hard money, and some for a mixed currency; some for free trade, and some in Congress like it much. They have no obfor a protective tariff. This is a prodigious jections to the Union whigs holding a separate convention in Washington, but they desire that showing, to be-sure. It is quite entertaining to read the scribblings of a whig about the diversities of opinion among the democrats about free ty to any alliance, however powerful and restrade and protection. The whigs know by experience it can't be counted upon. They have tried it, and can't even muster their own forces the Virginia Reaper, which has made so much upon it. ANOTHER REBUKE .- The able editor of the Statesman, published at Lexington, thus lets down upon the organ:

"THE NEW PAPER .- Our readers will remember that we announced, some time since, that a new democratic paper was shortly to make its appearance in Louisville, under the editorial conduct of Messrs. FOR MAYOR.

A 2-story Dwelling, s s Franklin, near Campbell st.

Also, several valuable and well-improved good Farms, Country Seats, and unimproved Lands for sale in this vicinity and State, Indiana, Illinois, &c.

In my last annual register report of property for sale,
in December, 1860, I then warned those who wanted a farm or lot to secure them as soon as possible, for I was convinced that they might not, in all probability, again ever see Real Estate as low in this city and neighborhood as it was at that date. This has been fully verified, as property generally has risen tally twenty-five to thirtythree per cent. or more since that time, notwithstanding the tightness of the money market for the last six months. Now, all our city wants, is the completion of the Nashville Railroad (which will secure two or three outlets to the Atlantic seaboard) to make her outstrip or go ahead of all competitor cities of the great Mississappi Valley. A mongst the lots above offered are some splendid building ones, and fine locations for private residences, and also some desirable residences, farms, &c.
Persons wishing to purchase or sell Real Estate will please glye me a call at my office, where every informs. D. F. WRIGHT is a candidate for Mayor at the nsuing city election. mr4 the ensuing city election.

corpse being conveyed to its last earthly abiding place. The king of the land, the royal family, the nobility, the clergy, the learned, the brave, the gifted, the renowned, walked after it. The banners of mourning were waved, the trumpets wailed, and ten thousand sobs broke alike from stern and gentle breasts, and tears from the eyes of warriors as well as lovely women showered like rain. It was the funeral of Bertel Thorvalsden, with the Danish nation for mourners! And she, the old woman who gazed at it as it slowly wound by-she was Amalie, his first love! Thorvalsden had never married, neither had she!

"An, HIMLEN!" murmured the old woman, wiping away tears from a source which for many long years had been dry, "how marvellous is the will of God! To think that I should live to behold this sight -Poor, poor Bertel! All that I predicted HIMLEN, there's only one can tell! Poor

Four years more sped, and one fine Sabbath morning an aged and decrepit | female painfully dragged her weary limbs | B through the crowded lower rooms of that wondrous building known as Thorvalsden's Museum. She paused not to glance at the matchless works of the sculptor, but crept onward until she reached an open doorway leading into the inner quadrangle, in the centre of which a low tomb of grav marble encloses the mortal remains of him whose hands created the works which fill the edifice. Step by step she drew close to the tomb, and sank on the pavement by its side. Then she laid down her crutch, and pressed her bony hands tightly over her skinny brow. "Ja sa!" murmured she; "they told me he lay here, and I prayed to God to grant me strength to crawl to the spot-and he has strength to crawl to the spot—and he has heard me. Ah, Himlen, I can die happy now!"

She withdrew her hands and peered at the simple but all-comprehensive inscription of "Bertel Thorvalsden," deeply cut on the side of the tomb. Then she raised her fore-finger, and earnestly traced with it every letter to the end. Smiling feebly, she let fall her hand, and complacently sighed, while an evanescent gleam of subtle emotion lighted up her lineaments.

DR. A. J. VANDERSLICE.

THIS is to certify that I have long been afflicted with the Dropsy, from which I have suffered much bodily as well as mental pain. I have tried many remedies with scarce any benefit, and applied to several eminent physicians, who promised a speedy cure; but, unfortunately, their promises were never realized. I was induced to make the speed of the realized. I was induced to make the speed of the several eminent tunate may consult him with like success.

This is to certify that Dr. A. J. VANDERSLICE attended my mother, Frances May, in the month of January last, for a severe attack of Rheumatism, and, after the present, and has been since its use, entirely well.

We venture to express our belief that this Preparation is as complete now as the present state of our medical knowledge admits of being made. We have seen no reason, upon consultation of the Medical Faculty, since we first compounded it, to change our opinion as to its being superior in every respect to any other Preparation for the various diseases of the Lungs and Throat.
